Greetings,

“For the day is coming, blazing like an oven, when all the proud and all evildoers will be stubble, and the day that is coming will set them on fire, leaving them neither root nor branch, says the Lord of hosts” (Malachi 3: 19) The Prophet Malachi sees the day of the Lord is coming, but we do not know when. On that day, an accounting of our actions and good deeds will be demanded. Then God will place definitive sanctions for behavior both to the just and the unjust. (Malachi is the very last book of the Old Testament). When Judah returned from exile in Babylon, the people and their leaders showed a tendency, which they had absorbed from their long contact with the pagans, to lead loose moral lives. The priests, who should have been leaders, were irresponsible, had dishonored God by their blemished sacrifices and they failed to correct abuses. Hence, the prophet Malachi, scolded them for their religious impiety and dishonesty. The Lord God, through His faithful prophet, Malachi warned Israel that the Day of the Lord was coming shortly, and that He had taken note of the goodness of those who feared Him and would have compassion on them on the Day of His coming. But He would punish the wicked and the proud on the “Day of the Lord” by setting them on fire, leaving them neither root nor branch.” The image here is that of a blazing oven. For the sinful, the Day will be a day of fiery purification; for the righteous, it will be the Day of healing.

We need to learn lessons from the past. Jesus gives the example (Luke 17:22-30) of the Flood during Noah’s time, when people ate and drank right up to the moment of disaster. (Genesis Chapters 6, 7 and 8) Similarly, he goes on, in the days of Lot, people were leading their ordinary, sinful lives when fire and brimstone rained down on the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. Only Lot and his family, who had been previously warned, and directly assisted by the angels, escaped. (Genesis 19). The same events will be repeated again at the end of the world. Some will be saved and others destroyed. Some will be prepared to meet their God and will be rewarded, while the unprepared will be punished. The criterion of selection will be our intimacy with Jesus in a life of grace.

Each reading for this weekend reminds us that life on this earth is transitory and we need to be ready to meet Jesus, our just Judge, and prepared to give Him an account of our lives. We need to make reparation for our sins and to prepare our lives to meet our Savior by living lives of penance and prayer and by doing works of charity.

Have a Blessed Weekend

We will also be buying gift cards at Larry's so each family can purchase groceries for a holiday meal.
