"Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?" (Mt 22:17) There were, in fact, three regular taxes which the Roman government required: the ground tax: a man must pay to the government one tenth of the grain and one fifth of the oil and wine which he produced. This tax was paid partly in kind and partly in a money equivalent; the income tax was 1% of a man's income, and the census tax or poll tax had to be paid by every male person from the age of fourteen to the age of sixty-five and by every female person from the age of twelve to sixty-five which amounted to one denarius. The tax in question here is the census/poll tax. A census tax implied that, if one were a citizen, one owed the money to the emperor. The Jews believed that they had the Lord God as their only Ruler, and so taxes, or any form of submission, should be made to God alone. Hence, the question which the Pharisees asked Jesus was intended to create a very real dilemma for him. If he said that it was unlawful to pay the tax, the Herodians and their allies would promptly report him to the Roman government officials, who would then arrest him as a revolutionary. If he were to say that it was lawful to pay the tax, they would turn against him and he would be discredited in the eyes of the people who were against paying taxes to a pagan emperor. In other words, to state that tax should be paid would have made Jesus appear a traitor to his country, while a denial would have left him behind the bars as an enemy of Rome. Whichever way Jesus might answer, so his questioners thought, he would lay himself open to trouble.

Jesus defeated their scheme by asking his challengers to show him the coin they would give to the tax-gatherer: "Show me the coin that pays the census tax" (Mt 22:19). Jesus, rather than answering their question directly, asked them a question, thus turning their trap inside out and upside down: "Whose image is this and whose inscription?" "Caesar's," they replied. "Repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God." In other words, we give to the emperor the coin because his image is on it, and we give to God our own selves because we are created in the image of God. "God created mankind in his image; in the image of God, he created them". (Gn 1:27).

We are citizens of the world and citizens of Heaven. We have an allegiance and an obligation to each. We hope the obligations will never clash. But if they ever do, we must resolve them as St. Thomas More 1478-1535 (His final words were, "The King's good servant, but God's first") and St. John Fisher (1469-1535) did, without compromise to our God or to our conscience. Their kind of faith and courage are needed in all seasons. For both, their convictions and consciences prevailed over convenience. "Give the Lord glory and honor".

Have a Blessed Weekend,
Fr. George

Called & Gifted

Attention gifted and called disciples, and yes that means ALL OF US!

Did you know that each of us is given a special giftedness or Charisma? God's Holy Spirit has endowed every baptized person with a gift that is to be used to build up the community of the faithful.

Whenever we perceive a problem or deficit in our Church and in our world it means someone is not using their gift.

The Called and Gifted discernment process is a way to discover your gifts and begin to practice it for the benefit of the Church and the world.

The initial two session course will be offered late Fall or early Winter on Monday evening. Please call or email Rose Suchy or Darby Bradley for more information or to sign up. dpbradley61@gmail.com, 320-339-0686 or stanns@gctel.com, 320-766-5312.

October: Month of the Rosary

Discover the inspiring story of Carlo Acutis, the young boy from Milan on the path to sainthood. You may have heard of him, the sneaker-wearing, computer-loving "gamer saint" of our time. But beyond the headlines and hashtags, the real story of Carlo is something deeper, something the world desperately needs to hear. Known for his deep love of God, devotion to the Eucharist, and quiet acts of charity, Carlo's life was a testament to everyday holiness.

Featuring personal stories from those who knew him in real life, this documentary goes beyond the headlines to reveal the heart of a boy who saw Jesus in everyone and never missed an opportunity to love. His simple yet profound faith continues to touch lives, proving that sainthood is for all of us. Be inspired by Carlo's true story and discover that holiness is possible in daily life.

A Vocation View

We do not choose a vocation completely on our own. We must prayerfully reflect on how we can best give to God what is God's and then live as though everything depends on God.
